

ABSTRACT

The present invention discloses a safety apparatus that monitors sounds in the ambient space and automatically adjusts and controls the sound output of an audio device to a pre-determined level. Alternatively, the safety apparatus can provide a visual or tactile warning to the user depending on the type of input/sound detected.